Ohio Medical Stand Said 'Unethical'

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr.
James Z. Appel, newly installed president of the American Medical Association, says it would be unethical and an act of bad citizenship for doctors to boycott the Medicare program if it becomes law.

Ohio doctors hearing the pronouncement squirmed uneasily. Their state organization's House of Delegates voted just such a boycott as Appel denounced.

He urges cooperation by doctors if Medicare is enacted, but he promises to continue the AMA's fight against the system.

Appel, 58, a general practitioner and surgeon from Lancaster, Pa., spoke Sunday at the opening of the AMA's five-day convention.

The Medicare program now in Congress would provide hospital and nursing home care under Social Security. It has passed the House and Appel said it probably will pass the Senate.

Aerial Pounding Pressed Against North Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam
(AP)—American and Vietnamese planes pounded bridges, barracks and other targets in North Viet Nam today. In the ground fighting, 27 governments troops and 20 Viet Cong were killed in sharp clashes, U.S. military spokesmen reported.

A U.S. Marine was killed today and three were wounded, one seriously, in a clash with the Viet Cong 10 miles west of Da Nang, the spokesmen said.
The Marine was the 417th American to die in combat in Viet Nam since December 1961.

Four guerrillas were killed and one was wounded in the same engagement, the spokesmen said.

Four U.S. Thunderchief pilots reported they damaged three bridges about 20 miles southeast of Vinh and six barges off the Vinh coast. Another four pilots claimed moderate damage to the Khu Mai staging area near Vinh and to a concrete bridge nearby.

Navy planes from the carriers Midway and Oriskany hit the Moc Chau army barracks

80 miles southwest of Hanoi, bridges and barges near Thanh Hoa and petroleum storage facilities 125 miles south of Hanoi.

The Viet Cong ambushed a convoy of 46 empty trucks on Route 21 from Ban Me Thuot to Nha Trang, killed 11 government soldiers and wounded 13 others.

An estimated two Viet Cong companies attacked a government outpost about 50 miles northwest of Saigon Sunday, spokesmen said, killing 11 soldiers, wounding three and leaving 13 missing.

An estimated 200 Viet Cong attacked a government post in Bien Hoa province about 60 miles north of Saigon, killing five men and wounding five.

The Viet Cong suffered 20 casualties in Quang Nam Province about 370 miles northeast of Saigon during a search-and-destroy operation that was re-spokesmen said.

Cyclists Hit Town, Leave Shambles

LACONIA, N.H. (AP) — Picturesque Laconia was a mess of beer cans and debris today as motor cyclists thundered down its little main street and out of town after a weekend riot in which 100 persons were injured, 10 seriously. Cars were overturned and buildings were set ablaze.

Damage was estimated well into the thousands after state and local police and the National Guard restored order among some 5,000 rioting fans who had come to town for a motorcycle race.

Not all the motorcycle fans were allowed to leave, however.
At least 40 persons were jammed into local and surrounding community jails. They were charged with violating the state's new Riot Act, conviction of which can mean a $1,000 fine and three years in jail.

Commissioner of Safety Robert W. Rhodes said the riot started Saturday night when a California motorcycle club known as "Hell's Angels" tipped over a car and then threw a ring around the area and "wouldn't let anybody get away."

Local and neighboring police, state troopers and finally the National Guard moved in to stop the throwing of smoke bombs and beer cans and fighting.

Surgeons Work 6 Hours To Sew Hand of Boy, 2

CLEVELAND (AP)—Doctors
at Parma Community Hospital are keeping a close watch on the tiny left hand of 2-year-old Christopher Burke to see whether work done in a six-hour-long operation will repair the damage done by a power mower.

Christopher was riding on the mower with his father at their home in suburban Parma Saturday when his fingers went under the mower blades.

Police rushed the child to the hospital, and doctors sent the officers scurrying back to the home to hunt for the remnants of the mangled fingers.

A plastic surgeon worked to rebuild the thumb and sew up the fingers and tendons of the hand. However, the surgeon was not optimistic. He said it would be three or four days before it would be known whether the skin graft is successful.

Tributes Flow For Baruch

Long-Time Adviser
Dies at Age 94

BERNARD BARUCH

NEW YORK (AP) — Tributes began flowing in today, eulogizing Bernard M. Baruch, capitalist-philanthropist and adviser to presidents of both parties, who died Sunday night of a heart attack at age 94.

At Baruch's bedside when he died in his home were his son, daughter, son-in-law, and former South Carolina Gov. James F. Byrnes, an old friend. Baruch had been ill for a week.

Vice President Hubert H.
Humphrey, just returned from Paris, told newsmen Sunday night at Andrews Air Force Base, near Washington:

"We have lost a very great man, a counselor of presidents and one of the most respected elder statesmen of this century."

Through shrewd speculation in the stock market after graduating from City College of New York, Baruch parlayed a $3-a-week job into more than a million dollars by the time he was 30. He amassed many more millions, but lost interest in wealth except to use it for large donations toward medical research, education and charity.

Baruch, who often proclaimed love for his country, always preached preparedness. In 1939, with Hitler menacing all of Europe, Baruch offered more than $3 million of his own money to help bring the U.S. Army up to date.

During World War I, President Woodrow Wilson named Baruch chairman of the War Industries Board.

Because Baruch was forever delving for accurate information, President Wilson called him "Dr. Facts."

Baruch once said he just wanted the facts, adding: "If you get all the facts, your judgment can be right; if you don't get all the facts, it can't be right."

Baruch urged on succeeding presidents, Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge, that war debts be canceled.

Friends reported that Harding listened with warm interest and that Coolidge just listened. However, both endorsed his suggestion for a standby industrial mobilization plan, in case of another war.

Hard of hearing in his later years, Baruch often spoke of persons coming to him for advice but not hearing his answers.

"They usually want to be encouraged to do what they are already doing," he said.

Deercreek Bids Opened

Penker Construction Co. of Cincinnati was apparent low bidder at $8,968,876 on construction of the dam and dike for the Deercreek Reservoir in Pickaway County, Ohio, the U. S. Army
Engineers announced today.

A combined bid by Winston Brothers Co. of Minneapolis and Green Construction Co. of Des Moines of $8,996,499 was second low bid.

Government estimate of the cost, without profit, was $9.1 million.

The Deercreek project is one of six proposed reservoirs for flood control in the Scioto River basin system.

Dominicans Call Strike

Rebel Backers
Eye Peace Plan

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Dominican
workers were called out on a three-day nationwide strike today to demonstrate support for the rebels.

One labor leader, Luis Henry
Molina, said there was no connection between the strike call
and current efforts by Organization of American States negotiators to reach a peace settlement.

The OAS team met with rebel negotiators Sunday to discuss its new peace formula
which both the rebels and the junta accepted Saturday as a basis for negotiations.

Reliable sources said the six-
man rebel team sought clarification of certain points in the formula.

The rebels were reported favoring a provisional government headed by a president
rather than a junta or triumvirate. The OAS formula left
the point open.

The rebels also want a permanent government elected in less than six months while the OAS plan calls for elections in six to nine months.

The rebels also want more than 30 officers removed from the armed forces before rebel soldiers rejoin the army and civilians give up their arms, as
the OAS proposes.

Rebel sources reported work
already has begun on an "institutional act" under which the provisional government would operate until elections.

The OAS wants the institutional act to include elements of
the 1962 and 1963 constitutions.
The 1962 constitution dates
from the days of Dictator Rafael
Trujillo. Ousted President Juan
Bosch ruled under the 1963 constitution, which the rebels want restored.

Johnson To Sign Tax Relief Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signs into law today the second big tax cut of his presidency — a $4.7-billion excise tax repeal that takes effect
Tuesday.

Johnson held the bill over the weekend, to give the government's fiscal agencies time to review the legislation that was rushed to completion by Congress last Thursday.

The delay was a blessing to storekeepers. Thousands of retailers toiled at inventory-taking through the weekend, to compile refunds for taxes already paid
on merchandise in stock.

The President confidently predicted Friday that manufacturers and dealers will pass the tax savings on to consumers and thereby help prolong the nation's unprecedented 52-month
business expansion.

"This will bring us lower prices, more purchasing power
and new jobs," Johnson said.

If his confidence is borne out
excise taxes worth $1.75 billion
a year to the Treasury will be wiped out on Tuesday. Another
$1.75 billion will come off on Jan. 1. Progressive cuts in automobile and telephone taxes will continue until Jan. 1, 1969.

Tuesday's first-stage cuts will reduce from 10 per cent to 7 per cent the tax on new cars; will eliminate entirely the 10 per cent retail excises on jewelry,
toiletries, cosmetics, luggage,
furs and leather goods; and will
repeal the manufacturers' tax
on these items:

Radio and television sets, phonographs, business machines,
refrigerators, freezers, all electric and gas household appliances, cameras, film, sporting goods, air conditioners, musical instruments, fountain and ballpoint pens playing cards,
and matches.

The tax repeal on air conditioners and the first-stage cut
for autos are retroactive to May 15, when Johnson sent the proposed legislation to Congress.
Car buyers will get back about $70 on the average, on purchases since May 15.

The repeals which take effect at year-end affect theater and

Humphrey Says DeGaulle Parley Is 'Fruitful, Most Constructive'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey
is back from Paris with a report of a "fruitful and most constructive" visit with President Charles de Gaulle.

He expected upon arrival to make that report to President
Johnson this morning, but the session was put off until Tuesday.

"It couldn't have been better," Humphrey said Sunday
night as he arrived at Andrews
Air Force Base just outside
Washington after a three-day
visit to Paris with Gemini astronauts James A. McDivitt
and Edward H. White II.

Humphrey's visit to De Gaulle Sunday took place
against a backdrop of strained
U.S.-French relations, especially over Viet Nam.

The vice president refused to comment specifically on the discussions, saying only that he and De Gaulle covered "a wide range of subjects" during their one-hour, 20-minute meeting in the Elysee Palace.

Humphrey did say he gave De Gaulle a message of greetings
from Johnson and that the French president had in turn sent best wishes to the American people.

He said De Gaulle and the French people were "friends of the United States and they have been friends for 200 years."

In Paris, Humphrey looked stern and grave as he left the meeting with De Gaulle. But his face broke into smiles as he told newsmen:

"The friendship between our
two countries is fast and constructive. It has been enduring and it will continue to endure."

The vice president said, "My mission here was not on matters of substance." He said he had
"no information" on the possibility of a meeting between the two presidents.

"I consider our visit to be heartening and satisfactory and most cordial," he said later before his departure for Washington.

Humphrey expressed his "appreciation of the very warm and hospitable reception given by the French government and by the people of the great city of Paris."

"I thank you on behalf of myself and the astronauts," he

Military Regime
Maintains Control

ALGIERS (AP) — Crowds of youths took to the streets in Algiers today to demonstrate in favor of deposed President Ahmed Ben Bella. Troops and police were rushed to the city's center.

Soldiers fired shots in the air
to disperse the crowd which chanted "Vive Ben Bella!" and
"Ya-hyah" (long live) Ben Bella!"

Special riot troops of the security police were called out to bolster troops. Some demonstrators were arrested and hustled
away.

Nearly 1,000 youths demonstrated Sunday night but were quickly broken up.

Troops appeared in today's demonstration for the first time since the predawn coup unseated Ben Bella Saturday.

The demonstration, begun by students, broke out in the afternoon near the post office and quickly grew despite police and army efforts.

The demonstrators were not all students. Some veiled Moslem women were among them,
shrilly crying out for Ben Bella, who is reported held in an army camp near the city.

The government of Col.
Houari Boumedienne, which
overthrew Ben Bella Saturday
in a bloodless coup, announced
the Asian-African conference would open as scheduled in Algiers June 29. A preparatory foreign ministers' meeting is set for Thursday.

The demonstration Sunday
night was the first indication of public opposition to the new regime.

It started with a march downtown by about 200 members of the Algerian Student Federation. They shouted "Ya-hya Ben Bella" — long live Ben Bella.
Riot police scattered them without violence and made a few arrests.

More youths ran through the streets shouting slogans in support.

Cincinnati was apparent low bidder at $8,968,876 on construc-

second low bid.

Government estimate of the

Rebel Backers
Eye Peace Plan

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Dominican
workers were called out on a
three-day nationwide strike today to demonstrate support for
the rebels.

One labor leader, Luis Henry
Molina, said there was no connection between the strike call
and current efforts by Organization of American States negotiators to reach a peace settlement.

The OAS team met with rebel negotiators Sunday to discuss its new peace formula
which both the rebels and the junta accepted Saturday as a basis for negotiations.

Reliable sources said the six-
man rebel team sought clarification of certain points in the formula.

The rebels were reported favorably to a provisional government headed by a president
rather than a junta or trium-
the point open.

The rebels also want a permanent government elected in less than six months while the OAS plan calls for elections in
six to nine months.

The rebels also want more
than 30 officers removed from
the armed forces before rebel soldiers rejoin the army and civilians give up their arms, as
the OAS proposes.

Rebel sources reported work
already has begun on an "institutional act" under which the
provisional government would operate until elections.

The OAS wants the institutional act to include elements of
the 1962 and 1963 constitutions.
The 1962 constitution dates
from the days of Dictator Rafael
Trujillo. Ousted President Juan
Bosch ruled under the 1963 constitution, which the rebels want
restored.

Johnson To Sign Tax Relief Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signs into law today the second big tax cut of his presidency — a $4.7-billion excise tax repeal that takes effect
Tuesday.

Johnson held the bill over the weekend, to give the government's fiscal agencies time to review the legislation that was rushed to completion by Congress last Thursday.

The delay was a blessing to storekeepers. Thousands of retailers toiled at inventory-taking
through the weekend, to compile records they will need to claim refunds for taxes already paid
on merchandise in stock.

The President confidently predicted Friday that manufacturers and dealers will pass the tax
savings on to consumers and
thereby help prolong the nation's unprecedented 52-month
business expansion.

"This will bring us lower
prices, more purchasing power
and new jobs," Johnson said.

If his confidence is borne out
excise taxes worth $1.75 billion
a year to the Treasury will be wiped out on Tuesday. Another
$1.75 billion will come off on Jan. 1. Progressive cuts in automobile and telephone taxes will continue until Jan. 1, 1969.

Tuesday's first-stage cuts will reduce from 10 per cent to 7 per cent the tax on new cars; will eliminate entirely the 10 per cent retail excises on jewelry,
toiletries, cosmetics, luggage,
furs and leather goods; and will
repeal the manufacturers' tax
on these items:

Radio and television sets, pho-
nographs, business machines,
refrigerators, freezers, all electric and gas household appliances, cameras, film, sporting goods, air conditioners, musical instruments, fountain and
ballpoint pens playing cards,
and matches.

The tax repeal on air conditioners and the first-stage cut
for autos are retroactive to May 15, when Johnson sent the proposed legislation to Congress.

Car buyers will get back about $70 on the average, on purchases since May 15.

3 Ohio Youths Drown during Canada Visit

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio
(AP)—A grief-stricken father and mother completed funeral arrangements today for their three children — all drowning victims.

A funeral director said three children of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hall of nearby Cynget drowned Saturday in Georgian Bay near Nobel, Ont., Canada.
The children were Daniel Hall,
7, Patricia, 14, and Judy, 13.

The victims' parents whose vacation trip ended in tragedy, arrived home Sunday night with their 16-year-old son, Glenn.

A funeral home spokesman in North Baltimore said the family told him the two girls were unsuccessful in trying to rescue Daniel, who apparently slipped into the bay from a bank.

The spokesman said he understood none of the children could swim.

He said the Halls arrived at the Canadian resort area Friday. Little Daniel left the cottage Saturday to go fishing. The girls, nearby, saw their brother in the water and went in to try to save him.

A short time later the Halls found the bodies of the chil-

Military Regime
Maintains Control

ALGIERS (AP) — Crowds of youths took to the streets in Algiers today to demonstrate in favor of deposed President Ahmed Ben Bella. Troops and police were rushed to the city's center.

Soldiers fired shots in the air
chanted "Vive Ben Bella!" and
"Ya-hyah" (long live) Ben Bel-
la!"

Special riot troops of the security police were called out to bolster troops. Some demonstrators were arrested and hustled
away.

Nearly 1,000 youths demonstrated Sunday night but were quickly broken up.

Troops appeared in today's demonstration for the first time since the pre-dawn coup unseated Ben Bella Saturday.

The demonstration, began by students, broke out in the afternoon near the post office and
quickly grew despite police and
army efforts.

The demonstrators were not
all students. Some veiled Moslem women were among them,
shrilly crying out for Ben Bella, who is reported held in an
army camp near the city.

The government of Col.
Houari Boumedienne, which
overthrew Ben Bella Saturday
in a bloodless coup, announced
the Asian - African conference would open as scheduled in Algiers June 29. A preparatory foreign ministers' meeting is set for Thursday.

The demonstration Sunday
night was the first indication of public opposition to the new regime.

It started with a march downtown by about 200 members of
the Algerian Student Federation. They shouted "Ya-hya Ben Bella" — long live Ben Bella.
Riot police scattered them without violence and made a few
arrests.

More youths ran through the streets shouting slogans in sup-

President Hubert H. Humphrey
is back from Paris with a report of a "fruitful and most constructive" visit with President Charles de Gaulle.

He expected upon arrival to
make that report to President
Johnson this morning, but the session was put off until Tuesday.

"It couldn't have been better," Humphrey said Sunday
night as he arrived at Andrews
Air Force Base just outside
Washington after a three-day
visit to Paris with Gemini as-
tronauts James A. McDivitt
and Edward H. White II.

Humphrey's visit to De Gaulle Sunday took place
against a backdrop of strained
U.S.-French relations, especially over Viet Nam.

The vice president refused to comment specifically on the
discussions, saying only that he
and De Gaulle covered "a wide range of subjects" during their
the Elysee Palace.

Humphrey did say he gave De Gaulle a message of greetings
from Johnson and that the French president had in turn
sent best wishes to the American people.

He said De Gaulle and the French people were "friends of
been friends for 200 years."

In Paris, Humphrey looked
stern and grave as he left the meeting with De Gaulle. But his face broke into smiles as he told
newsmen:

"The friendship between our
two countries is fast and constructive. It has been enduring
and it will continue to endure."

The vice president said, "My
mission here was not on matters
of substance." He said he had
"no information" on the possibility of a meeting between the
two presidents.

"I consider our visit to be heartening and satisfactory and
ton.

Humphrey expressed his "appreciation of the very warm and hospitable reception given by
Paris."

"I thank you on behalf of myself and the astronauts," he added, "Much courtesy was extended and we go away with warm and continuing friendship."

Humphrey, McDivitt and White were dispatched by Johnson to Paris last Friday, after welcoming ceremonies here for the spacemen.

Upon arrival at the capital, Humphrey said the astronauts were the "hit of the air show" in Paris.

McDivitt and White said at Andrews that they had been most impressed with the air show. McDivitt said the two had a pleasant chat for a few moments with Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin, the first man in the world to orbit the globe.

He did not say what the spacemen talked about.

Flood Jolts Dodge City

Arkansas River Crest Moves East

DODGE CITY, Kan. (AP)—A destructive flood crest roared down the Arkansas River toward Larned and Great Bend, Kan., today after bulldozing a path of havoc from eastern Colorado through western Kansas.

Floodwaters spread up to five miles wide in the Dodge City area Sunday and began moving through Kinsley, about 35 miles downstream, Sunday night.

The crest was expected to reach Larned by early afternoon and Great Bend by early Tuesday.

National Guard helicopters and small planes flew a constant vigil along the river valley just ahead of the crest to spot any stragglers.

"It's a 100-year flood," said Kansas Gov. William Avery who toured the devastated area by plane Sunday. "It's something no one ever thought could happen, and the high water marks far exceed any previous records."

Flood waters on the Arkansas and South Platte rivers receded in Colorado and officials began assessing the damage. The estimate of private property damage in Denver alone was upped to $44 million Sunday.

The Red Cross in Denver said more than 18,000 persons were homeless as a result of the floods in eastern Colorado, western Kansas and northern New Mexico.

The death toll in Colorado reached 15 Sunday night when Robert Virgil Ruetter, 15, of Pueblo was electrocuted during cleanup operations. The death toll in Kansas stood at two.

The last big flood crest on the South Platte River moved out of Colorado into Nebraska Sunday. The river crested 7 to 10 feet above normal at Ogallala, Neb., shortly after 7 p. m., but a dike thrown up between the town and river prevented any flooding in the town. Thus far the only flooding in Nebraska has been in the lowlands.

City officials at Dodge City said 600 homes and 35 businesses had been destroyed or damaged. The water was reported 17 feet above flood stage at one time, or 6 feet above any previous high-water mark.

Girls State Cities Name Their Mayors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—About 1,250 girls, members of the 19th annual Buckeye Girls State, have elected mayors of cities to get their week-long study of government under way.

The girls, separated into Federalist and Nationalist parties to select a governor and other state officials, will hold primaries for state offices Tuesday.

Among mayors are Nancy Theaker, Mansfield; Nellie Riggenbach, Paulding; Nancy Hilday, Chillicothe; Jayne Lupe, Amherst; Janelle Erskine, Pataaskala; Nancy Cobbe, Willoughby; Claudia Gruesser, Pomeroy; Harriett Collins, Hillsboro; Elaine Miller, Alliance; Ann Pinky, Ashland; and Lois Warren, Trenton.

Girls State is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, with girls chosen through competitive interviews after being nominated by school officials.

During the week the female lawmakers will act on proposed legislation similar to bills pending before the Ohio General Assembly.

TV Youths Return From Boys' State

Four Teays Valley boys have returned from Buckeye Boys State at Ohio University in Athens. The event is sponsored annually by the American Legion.

The youths who attended the eight day activity were David Cook, Bill Dore, Mark Phillips and Daniel Reed. Cook was an alternate for James Ridenour, who was unable to attend.

The Boys' State is designed to teach youths the workings of the city government and the formation of government bodies.

Campaigning proved successful for the four boys. Cook gained a spot as deputy auditor. Dore was made sports editor of a newspaper known as the "Hetuck." Along with covering sports, he wrote about the many speeches that were presented by Governor Rhodes, Ted W. Brown and other state leaders. Phillips was elected to the position of senator and minority leader. Reed won a position on the police force and was an officer.

port of Ben Bella. They overturned garbage cans on downtown streets and hurled pavement stones. Police dispersed them by driving trucks and motorcycles through the streets at high speed with sirens wailing. Most of the demonstrators scattered without violence when police riot squads approached.

All sports events and public gatherings were banned, including an international soccer match between Algeria and the Brazilian world champions.

Boumediene held a secret session with his ruling Revolutionary Council Sunday. One of the topics probably discussed was Ben Bella's fate. The former president was reported in an army prison camp.

The new government has denounced him as a "diabolical dictator."

Diplomats thought the government might stage a spectacular treason trial.

The council ordered the release of all political prisoners who it said had been arrested arbitrarily under Ben Bella.

President Gama Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic sent his top aide, Vice President Abdel Hakim Amer, to Algiers with urgent inquiries about Ben Bella's personal safety. Boumediene went to the airport to welcome Amer.

The Foreign Ministry said the new regime had informed most of the diplomatic missions in Algiers that it will respect all of the country's international commitments.

The ministry said Boumediene will remain faithful to the basic principles of Algeria's foreign policy. It said these were campaigning against imperialism, colonialism and neo-colonialism; nonalignment in the East-West struggle; striving for Arab and African unity and favoring international cooperation and world peace.

Recognition for Boumediene's regime came from Communist China, India, Syria and Indonesia.

The Soviet Union, bitter rival of China for influence in Algeria, was noncommittal but Moscow propaganda indicated recognition was coming.

The United States maintained a "wait and see" attitude. There was no word on how France felt about developments in her former possession whose economy is still tied to hers.

Police Check Two Injury Mishaps Here

Circleville Police investigated a total of four accidents during the weekend, two of which involved injuries to motorists or passengers.

At 12:30 a. m. Sunday, John McFarland, 18, New Holland, and Clarence Strausbaugh, also 18, who was a passenger in the auto driven by McFarland, sustained lacerations and bruises.

McFarland lost control of his car on Atwater Ave. near Morris Road and crashed into a utility pole. His car was demolished. Circleville Police cited him for driving left of center.

Yesterday at 12:41 p. m. Patty Mae Davis was taken to Berger Hospital emergency room for treatment when a car driven by her husband, William H. Davis Sr., 26, W. Ohio St., crashed into an auto driven by Gary Conley, 17, Columbus.

Conley, who was northbound on Pickaway St., failed to stop at the intersection of Ohio St., where the accident occurred. He was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

City Police Probe Attempted Burglary

Circleville Police today were investigating what they believed to be an attempted burglary of the Circle Bar, East Ohio St.

Patrolmen Wesley Barton and Larry Pontious heard a noise at the local cafe while on routine patrol early today. They checked and discovered the lock on the rear door was pried off.

They believe they interrupted the intruder before he could gain entry into the building.

$50 Billion Appropriation Is Studied by Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—Appropriation bills involving almost $50 billion are the main business before Congress this week.

Largest of the money measures is a $45.2-billion bill to finance the Defense Department for the fiscal year starting July 1. It comes before the House Wednesday and will be preceded by a $4.2-billion measure to foot the cost of federal public works programs for the same year.

A less costly but usually more controversial appropriation bill is unfinished business in the Senate today. It would provide less than $50 million in federal funds to help finance the annual budget of the District of Columbia government.

The Senate also will take up the bill dealing with silver coins. Its Banking Committee has approved an administration bill to remove the silver from dimes and quarters, but retain it in reduced quantities in half dollars. The House Banking Committee has approved a measure which would eliminate silver from all coins, including half dollars.

The first of the regular annual appropriation bills cleared Congress last week. It appropriates more than $1 billion for the Interior Department for the new fiscal year.

Also sent to the President for his signature were bills cutting excise taxes $4.7 billion, providing financial help to flood-stricken West Coast states, and increasing the debt limit.

The House was more active than usual last week. In addition to acting on the Interior Department, flood relief and excise tax measures, it passed a bill to create a Cabinet-level department of housing and urban development.

Thefts Reported To City Police

Three thefts were reported to Circleville police during the weekend.

Robert Smith, Washington C. H., told officers a saddle valued at about $60 was taken from a truck while at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

Edward Carter, Route 4, reported the theft of a canvas from his car. He said the theft occurred Thursday or Friday. Fred Craig Jr., 950 S. Pickaway St., said a convertible top cover was taken from his car while the vehicle was parked in front of his home.

No Damage Listed In 2 Weekend Fires

Circleville firemen responded to two alarms during the weekend with "no damage" resulting in either blaze.

On Saturday afternoon, about 3 p. m., a minor blaze was extinguished at Ted Lewis Park when a charcoal grill upset and started a fire. The second alarm occurred at 1:08 p. m. Sunday when children started a fire in a barn on Wheeler Ave., belonging to Fred Mitchell, Williamsport.

ban development and a resolution giving each House member authority to hire one student intern during the summer months.

The House Rules Committee has scheduled hearings starting Tuesday on a $1.9-billion anti-poverty bill. Hung up in the same committee are a voting rights bill and a measure to ban state laws that prohibit union contracts requiring employees to belong to labor unions.

Flood Jolts Dodge City

Arkansas River Crest Moves East

DODGE CITY, Kan. (AP)—A destructive flood crest roared down the Arkansas River toward Larned and Great Bend, Kan., today after bulldozing a path of havoc from eastern Colorado through western Kansas.

Floodwaters spread up to five miles wide in the Dodge City area Sunday and began moving through Kinsley, about 35 miles downstream, Sunday night.

The crest was expected to reach Larned by early afternoon and Great Bend by early Tuesday.

National Guard helicopters and small planes flew a constant vigil along the river valley just ahead of the crest to spot any stragglers.

"It's a 100-year flood," said Kansas Gov. William Avery who toured the devastated area by plane Sunday. "It's something no one ever thought could happen, and the high water marks far exceed any previous records."

Flood waters on the Arkansas and South Platte rivers receded in Colorado and officials began assessing the damage. The estimate of private property damage in Denver alone was upped to $44 million Sunday.

The Red Cross in Denver said more than 18,000 persons were homeless as a result of the floods in eastern Colorado, western Kansas and northern New Mexico.

The death toll in Colorado reached 16 Sunday night when Robert Virgil Ruetter, 15, of Pueblo was electrocuted during cleanup operations. The death toll in Kansas stood at two.

The last big flood crest on the South Platte River moved out of Colorado into Nebraska Sunday. The river crested 7 to 10 feet above normal at Ogallala, Neb., shortly after 7 p. m., but a dike thrown up between the town and river prevented any flooding in the town. Thus far the only flooding in Nebraska has been in the lowlands.

City officials at Dodge City said 600 homes and 35 businesses had been destroyed or damaged. The water was reported 17 feet above flood stage at one time, or 6 feet above any previous high-water mark.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—About 1,250 girls, members of the 19th annual Buckeye Girls State, have elected mayors of cities to get their week-long study of government under way.

Girls State is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, with girls chosen through competitive interviews after being nominated by school officials.

During the week the female lawmakers will act on proposed legislation similar to bills pending before the Ohio General Assembly.

TV Youths Return From Boys' State

Four Teays Valley boys have returned from Buckeye Boys State at Ohio University in Athens. The event is sponsored annually by the American Legion.

The youths who attended the eight day activity were David Cook, Bill Dore, Mark Phillips and Daniel Reed. Cook was an alternate for James Ridenour, who was unable to attend.

The Boys' State is designed to teach youths the workings of the city government and the formation of government bodies.

Campaigning proved successful for the four boys. Cook gained a spot as deputy editor. Dore was made sports editor of a newspaper known as the "Hetuck." Along with covering sports, he wrote about the many speeches that were presented by Governor Rhodes, Ted W. Brown and other state leaders. Phillips was elected to the position of senator and minority leader. Reed won a position on the police force and was an officer.

port of Ben Bella. They overturned garbage cans on downtown streets and hurled pavement stones. Police dispersed them by driving trucks and motorcycles through the streets at high speed with sirens wailing. Most of the demonstrators scattered without violence when police riot squads approached.

All sports events and public gatherings were banned, including an international soccer match between Algeria and the Brazilian world champions.

Boumedienne held a secret session with his ruling Revolutionary Council Sunday. One of the topics probably discussed was Ben Bella's fate. The former president was reported in an army prison camp.

The new government has denounced him as a "diabolical dictator."

Diplomats thought the government might stage a spectacular treason trial.

The council ordered the release of all political prisoners who it said had been arrested arbitrarily under Ben Bella.

President Gama Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic sent his top aide, Vice President Abdel Hakim Amer, to Algiers with urgent inquiries about Ben Bella's personal safety. Boumedienne went to the airport to welcome Amer.

The Foreign Ministry said the new regime had informed most of the diplomatic missions in Algiers that it will respect all of the country's international commitments.

The ministry said Boumedienne will remain faithful to the basic principles of Algeria's foreign policy. It said these were campaigning against imperialism, colonialism and neo-colonialism; nonalignment in the East-West struggle; striving for Arab and African unity and favoring international cooperation and world peace.

Recognition for Boumedienne's regime came from Communist China, India, Syria and Indonesia.

The Soviet Union, bitter rival of China for influence in Algeria, was noncommittal but Moscow propaganda indicated recognition was coming.

The United States maintained a "wait and see" attitude. There was no word on how France felt about developments in her former possession whose economy is still tied to hers.

Stock Mart Prices Sag

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market sagged in quiet trading early this afternoon.

Key stocks were down from fractions to a point or so.

The list was mixed in early trading but demand was lacking and the price level wilted. First-hour volume of 850,000 shares was below the million share level for the first time in weeks.

A mixed background of economic news as well as the fact that the huge offering of six million shares of Ford stock overhung the market were dampening factors.

Also borne in mind by stock technicians was the general expectation that the market would have to "test" the lows reached last Monday before the climactic Tuesday session when a vigorous rally go under way.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 5 1/2 at 320.9 with industrials off 1 1/2, rails unchanged and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 4 1/2 at 874.50. Last month the average closed at 868.71, the intermediate low being watched by chartists.

Why Black Eye?

They held a "Forum on Economics" at the Hall of Free Enterprise out at New York's World's Fair the other day for the "college queens" of the nation. The girls, fifty of them, were chosen in local contests that took classroom standing, campus popularity, extra-curricular achievements and personality into consideration, so it may be assumed that this was the cream of the crop. Your columnist was one of a panel of judges whose duty was to throw provocative economic questions at the girls. What developed in a totally unpremeditated way was a commentary that reflects very badly (a) on the U.S. college faculties and (b) on the businessmen of America. The girls, it should be noted, did not consciously intend to be critical of either group, so any blame for the foregoing statement should be visited on your columnist's head.

One of the key questions ran as follows: "During a recent youth attitude study based on interviews, a majority of the girls stated flatly that they do not want husbands who are businessmen. How would you account for this attitude on the campus?" Most of the girls said that they, personally, had nothing against a businessman for a husband, and some doubted the validity of any piling sample that could have yielded such an anti-business conclusion. But when they got going on the reason for the campus antipathy to business, it was obvious that industry, in America, while it may be able to sell cars and refrigerators, has done an abominably rotten job for more than thirty years in justifying its own existence to the high school and college students of America.

The girl from the University of California at Los Angeles said she'd gladly consider a businessman for a husband, but she announced that a majority of the students on her campus resented business. She blamed the "myths" that are circulated about the profit system for the widespread antipathy. The girl from the University of Florida was pro-business, but she noticed that the business course in college attracted the stupidest people. The girl from the University of Connecticut didn't want a businessman for a husband, for he'd be away from home too much and, anyway, the big corporations put too much pressure on the executives' wives. She said her picture of business had come partly from books, plays "and Vance Packard." Other girls spoke of the bad business image that one gets from movies and TV.

Coming from a group of intelligent girls who, for the most part, showed themselves to be extremely appreciative of what business has done to create an affluent America, all of this added up to a tremendous indictment of United States industry for not being able to get its point of view over to the campuses of the United States. The strange thing about it all is that not one of the fifty girls blamed her college or high school instructors for the low esteem in which business is held although it would seem that any college faculty that is at least fifty percent pro-business might help change the stereotype to which the girls were objecting.

The interesting thing about the fifty "college queens" is that none of them had been brainwashed by the forces that they described as operative in a society that has ceased to honor its businessmen. They subscribed to the point made by the Hall of Free Enterprise's show, that profits should be considered as a proper "cost" of business, inasmuch as profits were needed to buy new and improved tools that pay off in higher productivity for everyone. They responded quite intelligently to questions about K. Marx. Without mentioning Henry Ford, the girls said it was idiotic to think that you could have mass production without mass consumption. What Marx missed, said one, was the rise of the consumer. "Marx", said another, "would be very much surprised if he were alive today."

Since the fifty girls were not representative of the anti-business polling results to which they took general exception, it is obvious that nobody can destroy the common sense of an intelligent student. But this panel came away convinced that the big corporations, whose products are so artfully advertised at the World's Fair, have a big job to prove their social worth to undergraduates. And the professors obviously aren't helping the corporations tell the story they might be telling.

'Dear John' Now 'Cheer John'

By Hal Boyle

By HAL BOYLE
DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Leaves from a war reporter's notebook:

Remember the "Dear John" letters of World War II?

They were the notes from home which broke the melancholy news to a soldier at the front that his girl friend had broken off their romance, or his wife had run off with the milkman.

Well, John C. Golueke, an Air Force staff sergeant from Kansas City, Mo., gets a different sort of missive from his wife,

Mary. She calls them "Cheer John" books.

One photo shows a pair of lovely, feminine almond-shaped eyes, and beneath it this notation: "Poison. Keep this out of reach of John."

There are many poisonous snakes in Viet Nam, but I have yet to hear of an American death being caused by them.

You hear much talk of king cobras and 14-foot pythons. But the snake the troops fear most is the banded krait. It is known as "the fifth-step snake."

"They call it that," a Marine private assured me, "because its poison is so deadly that if you start to run after it bites you, you die as you take your fifth step."

A more common peril is the local beer here, which is being downed in huge quantities because of a shortage of American beer. It is sometimes followed by a temporary ailment known here as "the Saigon quick-step." Someone started a rumor that the Viet Cong had put formaldehyde in one supply, recapped the bottles, and distributed them in bars.

The rumor has had no effect on the sale of the beer. Shaking the sweat from his forehead, one corporal said as he hoisted a bottle:

"What's a little formaldehyde? I'd rather be embalmed than die of thirst in this heat." Men away from their loved ones turn to pets for consolation.

The range of pets in this military theater is wide. It includes dogs, cats, lizards, monkeys, pigs, parrots, goats, and a small horse named Harry. The survival chances of the pigs is not rated very high. Most are expected to end up at a barbecue with apples in their mouths.

Recently, hard-working Seabees constructing a Marine airstrip at Chu Lai received a mascot from heaven. It was a small, young honey bear which was dropped by a supply ship in its own parachute—and landed safe but frightened.

LAFF-A-DAY

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What is responsible for the open sores and cracks at the angle of the mouth?

Mr. L. C. D., Kentucky
Dear Mr. D.: These tiny fissures are called perleche. There is a tendency to think that vitamin deficiency is the most frequent cause. This is really not completely true.

Excess salivation, due to poorly fitting dentures, is an important cause. Fungus infections of the corner of the mouth, allergies and a variety of infections can create these painful cracks and keep them from healing readily.

There are many safe creams that contain antibiotics or cortisone that can now cure this unpleasant condition, once the exact cause is established.

Is it safe for a person with high blood pressure to travel to high altitudes?

Mrs. D. L., Arizona
Dear Mrs. L.: It must be considered an added and unnecessary risk for people with high blood pressure (hypertension) to suddenly move into high altitudes.

A rapid ascent from sea level may produce a series of unpleasant symptoms. High altitude and the differences of oxygen pressures can put additional stress on the heart and lungs of the hypertensive person.

Such a radical change, even for a short period of time, should be undertaken only with the specific advice of the physician.

Can household pets transmit infections to humans?

Mrs. L. G., Illinois
Dear Mrs. G.: In most instances household pets are harmless.

A rare and strange outbreak of salmonellosis, a form of dysentery, was recently traced to infected pet turtles. When the origin of this local epidemic in Minnesota was uncovered by public health officials, turtles and turtle food were found to be contaminated with the salmonella organism.

Because of these findings important suggestions have been made for safety.

Children should not be allowed to handle turtles unless they wash their hands thoroughly after playing with them. Water from turtle tanks must not be discarded where it might contaminate sinks, cooking utensils or food.

Only turtles and turtle food that are completely free from salmonella, after rigid testing should be brought into the house.

Can tuberculosis be inherited?

Dear Mrs. R.: Tuberculosis is not hereditary. There is no personal or family weakness that makes some acquire it more readily than others.

But tuberculosis is a communicable disease and therefore can be passed on from one member of the family to another.

Anyone in direct contact with a tuberculous patient must be examined to rule out the disease.

An X-ray of the lung is available to everyone through their local and state Board of Health. Tuberculosis is still an active and destructive disease; one that must not be taken lightly because of successful cures with modern drugs.

Two million commuters flood Tokyo's main railroad terminals twice daily. On one memorable day, 85 commuters were hospitalized or given emergency treatment for sprains and cuts.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — Who was buying those stocks during the month-long drop of prices from their May 14 peak? Some of them were people who were making a profit because they had guessed right.

Every share sold had to be bought by some one. And the buyers doubtless were of many types.

But there's a clue to who some of them were in the latest stock market statistics. They were traders who had sold short at or near the peak. By June 15 a sizable number had cashed in on the price drop. It meant profits for the meven if it brought disappointment for those hoping for a continued rise.

A short seller is a trader who borrows a stock and sells it at the going price. He hopes to buy it back in the future at a lower price and return it to the original owner, pocketing the difference as profit.

The short interest on the New York Stock Exchange dropped 468,407 shares from May 14 to June 15. That is, last week traders were putting up less money to back their belief that prices would slide further.

That 468,407 share drop isn't tremendous. But it does bring the short interest of 6,015,608 shares on June 15 to the lowest level since January 15. With the single exception of January, the level is the lowest in more than a year.

But short traders cashing in their profits weren't the only ones buying shares during the long price slide.

Some who were buying the offerings of those seeking to unload were specialists in particular issues. They are charged with maintaining an orderly market. They buy and sell when offerings can't be matched.

Others buying when all the market news seemed to be about sliding prices were doubtless those who thought they spotted a bargain in an issue they had been wanting, but had been wary of the higher price.

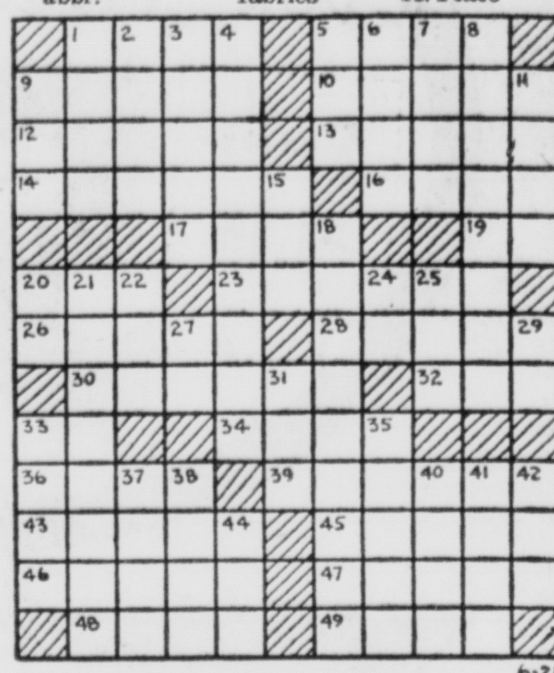

Still others could be traders who thought the market price for some issue had reached a low and were buying for the long interest.

That is, they bought low, hoping to sell high—just the opposite of short interest traders looking for a decline.

Then there were those who thought the market jitters were unfounded. They bought to hold for the long term, convinced that sooner or later prices will move up to still higher records.

NEW YORK (AP) — Who was buying those stocks during the month-long drop of prices from their May 14 peak? Some of them were people who were making a profit because they had guessed right.

Every share sold had to be bought by some one. And the buyers doubtless were of many types.

But there's a clue to who some of them were in the latest stock market statistics. They were traders who had sold short at or near the peak. By June 15 a sizable number had cashed in on the price drop. It meant profits for the meven if it brought disappointment for those hoping for a continued rise.

A short seller is a trader who borrows a stock and sells it at the going price. He hopes to buy it back in the future at a lower price and return it to the original owner, pocketing the difference as profit.

The short interest on the New York Stock Exchange dropped 468,407 shares from May 14 to June 15. That is, last week traders were putting up less money to back their belief that prices would slide further.

That 468,407 share drop isn't tremendous. But it does bring the short interest of 6,015,608 shares on June 15 to the lowest level since January 15. With the single exception of January, the level is the lowest in more than a year.

But short traders cashing in their profits weren't the only ones buying shares during the

long price slide.

Some who were buying the offerings of those seeking to unload were specialists in particular issues. They are charged with maintaining an orderly market. They buy and sell when offerings can't be matched.

Others buying when all the market news seemed to be about sliding prices were doubtless those who thought they spotted a bargain in an issue they had been wanting, but had been wary of the higher price.

Still others could be traders who thought the market price for some issue had reached a low and were buying for the long interest.

That is, they bought low, hoping to sell high—just the opposite of short interest traders looking for a decline.

Then there were those who thought the market jitters were unfounded. They bought to hold for the long term, convinced that sooner or later prices will move up to still higher records.

'Dear John' Now 'Cheer John'

By Hal Boyle

By HAL BOYLE
DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Leaves from a war reporter's notebook:

Remember the "Dear John" letters of World War II?

They were the notes from home which broke the melancholy news to a soldier at the front that his girl friend had broken off their romance, or his wife had run off with the milkman.

Well, John C. Golueke, an Air Force staff sergeant from Kansas City, Mo., gets a different sort of missive from his wife,

Mary. She calls them "Cheer John" books.

One photo shows a pair of lovely, feminine almond-shaped eyes, and beneath it this notation: "Poison. Keep this out of reach of John."

There are many poisonous snakes in Viet Nam, but I have yet to hear of an American death being caused by them.

You hear much talk of king cobras and 14-foot pythons. But the snake the troops fear most is the banded krait. It is known as "the fifth-step snake."

"They call it that," a Marine private assured me, "because its poison is so deadly that if you start to run after it bites you, you die as you take your fifth step."

A more common peril is the local beer here, which is being downed in huge quantities because of a shortage of American beer. It is sometimes followed by a temporary ailment known here as "the Saigon quick-step."

Someone started a rumor that the Viet Cong had put formaldehyde in one supply, recapped the bottles, and distributed them in bars.

The rumor has had no effect on the sale of the beer. Shaking the sweat from his forehead, one corporal said he hoisted a bottle:

"What's a little formaldehyde? I'd rather be embalmed than die of thirst in this heat." Men away from their loved ones turn to pets for consolation.

The range of pets in this military theater is wide. It includes dogs, cats, lizards, monkeys, pigs, parrots, goats, and a small horse named Harry. The survival chances of the pigs is not rated very high. Most are expected to end up at a barbecue with apples in their mouths.

Recently, hard-working Seabees constructing a Marine airstrip at Chu Lai received a mascot from heaven. It was a small, young honey bear which was dropped by a supply ship in its own parachute—and landed safe but frightened.

Circleville Firemen extinguished a fire in a barn and garage behind the Charles Welch residence at 1120 S. Court St., with damage estimated at $300.

14 Passenger Cars Derailed

27 Persons Hurt In Delphos Mishap

DELPHOS, Ohio (AP) — A night passenger train from Chicago to New York jumped the track at Main Street in this community of 7,000 late Sunday night.

Twenty-seven of its 150 passengers were injured. Eight required treatment at hospitals in nearby Lima. All were released after treatment.

Fourteen cars of the Pennsylvania Railroad's 20-car "Admiral" were derailed as it rumbled into the downtown area. One passenger car and three baggage cars flipped on their sides.

The Ohio Highway Patrol estimated that the train was going over 70 miles an hour when it derailed.

Five box cars on a siding were smashed by the impact of the hurtling passenger cars and one was driven through the wall of a building of the Hagen Manufacturing Co. Stones kicked up by the skidding cars broke several store windows.

"The first sensation we had of the wreck was the car bumping up and down," R. S. Williams of Harrisburg, Pa., a passenger, said. "Then luggage began flying around the car and people were sliding down the aisles."

Nearly 2,000 feet of rail was torn up. Main lines of three railroads are expected to be blocked by the wreckage for several days. The crossover for the Pennsylvania, Nickel Plate and Akron, Canton Youngstown railroads was ripped out. Two of Delphos' main streets were also blocked.

Cause of the wreck was believed to be a broken wheel on one of the cars.

The conductor of the wrecked train, L. Eckrote of Fort Wayne Ind., estimated the damage at upwards of $600,000 to the train alone.

The Pennsylvania Railroad immediately began rerouting its trains over the Erie-Lackawanna tracks out of Decatur, Ind.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Spending by county commissioners for improvements without seeking competitive bids, a practice of 30 years standing, is under a two-pronged attack on legislative and judicial fronts.

Rep. Robert E. Levitt, R-Stark, has a bill awaiting Ohio House action to require county advertising for bids on all purchases exceeding $1,000.

The former Canton city councilman and assistant city solicitor says enactment would close "one of the biggest loopholes in present law."

His measure would bring counties under the same competitive bidding rules as cities and other local government units.

County commissioners and engineers are working quietly to prevent a floor vote on grounds such a law would hamper major repairs and boost costs.

In the Ohio Supreme Court, Athens County commissioners and other officials are appealing from lower court orders against payment of $60,000 worth of bridge and road work done without competitive bidding.

Commissioners authorized work under the oft-used "force account" method whereby counties supposedly act as their own contractor to use labor supplied by county engineers.

Gabriel F. Pincelli, former member of the Ohio Contractors Association, filed the injunction suit as a taxpayer to prevent payment to the Ohio Bridge Corp., Cambridge, without bidding.

The company contended courts lacked authority to enjoin commissioners "irrespective of any defects in the procedures followed."

The court is not expected to act on the case before next fall. George W. Taylor, Madison County commissioner and executive secretary of the County Commissioners Association of Ohio, told the court:

"It is necessary under force account procedure that persons other than regular county employees be employed to perform work. If all force account work had to be done by employees on the county payroll . . . it would hamper operations to such an extent that the funds available would be insufficient to cover the 30,000 miles of county road."

Art J. Moon, secretary of the Association of County Engineers and a Wyandot County commissioner, said the practice of commissioners under force accounts is to have contractors furnish material and apply or install them.

"This has been the practice for some 30 years," Moon said. "If all force account work had to be done solely by employees on the county payroll, the cost would increase materially. There would be a serious question as to the ability of a county

Situation Not Bad as Seemed

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Lewis Bass, a realtor, has learned to cope with almost any emergency, even those involving youngsters.

He got a call that a child was trapped somewhere inside the air-conditioning ducts at one of his office buildings.

Bass rushed over and found the distraught father had pried the grill-covering from the air-conditioning and was yelling encouragement to his small daughter.

Bass called the fire department, then began investigating.

He found the child two floors below. She was standing in front of the ducts, crying. And the sounds had carried upward, leading to the belief she was trapped.

to secure the necessary labor." William J. Oertel, executive director of the Ohio Newspaper Association, appeared before the Ohio House Metropolitan Areas Committee in support of Levitt's proposal.

The bill would require commissioners to publish notice of proposed purchases in a general circulation newspaper in a county for not less than two nor more than four consecutive weeks.

"One of the major reasons for giving notice," Oertel said, "is so that any person wanting to appeal or question a government action might have a chance to do so."

He said notice also would keep interested citizens informed about "what is going on within government and how tax money is spent."

Oertel asserted the bill was offered to satisfy a conflict between laws affecting county commissioners and county engineers.

"What we have here," he said, "is a continuing and costly power fight recurrent in every county in the state."

He blamed the situation on conflicting legislation.

Oertel maintained that benefiting groups and those who administer have avoided clarification "for fear of losing individual advantage or power by having the legislature adopt one clear-cut method encompassing all situations in one chapter of the revised code to establish orderly policy and procedure to handle the public contracts involved."

Levitt, a second term representative, said his bill would not require that the lowest bidder always receive the contract.

"But it would open this public purchasing, involving millions of dollars, to the light of day so the public would be aware of what is being done with their tax money," he added.

"The purpose of public notice and competitive bidding is to give to suppliers of services and merchandise an opportunity to compete for the benefits flowing from public contracts as well as to secure economy in the expenditure of public funds and to protect the public from favoritism and extravagance."

ORDER OF NOTICE

To the Policyholders of Central Assurance Company, an Ohio mutual company, with principal offices in Clearcreek Township, Warren County, Ohio:

Notice is hereby given that Central Assurance Company has filed its Petition of merger with the Superintendent of Insurance of Ohio. The terms of the proposed merger are on file at the offices of the company and in the office of the Superintendent of Insurance.

Such Petition will be heard by the Commission provided by No. 3807-11, Revised Code at 3:00 A. M. o'clock on Wednesday, June 23, 1965, at the office of the Superintendent of Insurance. Any policyholder of the company may appear and be heard in reference to such Petition.

William R. Morris,
Superintendent of Insurance
May 17, 24, 31, June 7, 14, 21.

Levitt noted that Stark County commissioners have considered spending $1 million for voting machines without any indication of seeking competitive bids.

He also cited a recent state auditor's report critical of Holmes County commissioners for approving $80,000 worth of force account bridge construction by the county engineer. The work actually was done by private contractors, the report showed.

"The commissioners cannot authorize the engineer to proceed by force account and in the same resolution specify that the construction be done by such and such a company or corporation," the state examiner added.

Luxurious Decor Ideas for Baths

By ELEANOR ROSS

Economical luxury sounds like a contradiction in terms. But luxury isn't always costly.

The lucky woman who selects a costly mink coat rationalizes that it will serve so many purposes, take the place of so many other coats.

Be that as it may, we'll discuss economical luxuries nearer to home.

Rich room decoration or rearrangement can inspire adaptations for those on a budget and pay off in comfort and family contentment.

Certain ideas shown in lavish layouts of custom-designed bathrooms, for instance, can be translated into suggestions for the more modest bathroom.

There are often many ways of adapting a good idea. Skip the imported marble and the gold-plated faucets, and consider the basic planning that goes into making a modern bathroom serve its owners to the best advantage.

A sun lamp is a good example — and a terry-covered couch to go with it. These can conceivably be incorporated in many a bathroom already built. We have seen this suggestion splendidly adapted by a number of forward-looking, smart homemakers.

Here's how one smart bachelor girl has worked out the idea to get indoor and sun-tanning at home. Instead of a regular couch, which of course could hardly be placed in any but a big bathroom, she used a padded board six feet long, attached to one wall. It was only two feet wide.

The terrycloth cover she made herself. It is removable, of course, for easy washing. She made one plain and one a delicious print to harmonize with her bathroom color scheme.

Another excellent bathroom idea is the back-to-back lavatory. This arrangement takes up little wall space, and a double-sided mirror serves for both lavatories. What a blessing this set-up turns out to be during the morning rush hour.

More and more use is being made of the main bathroom fixtures that are suspended from the wall. This arrangement makes it infinitely easier to keep the room clean — especially underfoot. And it reduces the cost of having the floor recovered.

A luxurious bathroom, in the literal sense, does not have to be the most lavishly decorated and appointed. It can be the one that offers the facilities that make it a convenient and attractive part of the home.

Miss Johnson, Mr. Line Exchange Wedding Vows

MRS. RONALD N. LINE

Miss Diane Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Margaret C. Johnson, 314½ E. Mound St., exchanged wedding vows with Mr. Ronald N. Line, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Line, Columbus, 2:30 p. m. yesterday in the First Methodist Church.

The Rev. Paul I. Wachs performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with white gladioli and chrysanthemums, baskets of huckleberry and seven branch candelabra. Pews were marked with white satin bows and huckleberry.

Mrs. Thomas Downing, organist, presented a half hour of nuptial music.

Escorted to the altar by her brother, Mr. Jerry C. Johnson, Columbus, the bride wore a floor length gown of nylon organza and lace designed with a fitted bodice enhanced with a sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves of lace. Tiers of ruffles of lace highlighted the back of the full skirt. A forward headpiece of extending lace trimmed with sequins and pearls, topped with a cluster of self-made roses of nylon organza, held her finger-tip veil of pure silk imported illusion. She carried a white lace handkerchief that was made and carried by her grandmother at her wedding and a white Bible centered with a white orchid and stephanotis with shattered carnations in white satin streamers.

Mrs. John W. Pontious, Circleville, was matron of honor. Mrs. William J. Cooke, Seattle, Wash., and Miss Linda J. Barrows, Marietta, O., were bridesmaids. The attendants wore pale pink cotton satin sheath dresses with lace overskirts caught at the waistline by a satin bow. Their headpieces were matching organza roses with circle veils and they carried a deep red rose. Each wore a single strand of pearls.

Miss Tracey Lynn Altwater and Miss Lisa Kay Altwater, cousins of the bride from Cambridge, O., were junior bridesmaid and flower girl. The junior bridesmaid wore a dress and accessories similar to those of the other attendants. The flower girl wore a full dress of white dotted swiss with a pink taffeta lining and sash. She carried a basket of red rose petals.

Mr. David Line, Columbus, served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Mr. William J. Cooke, Seattle, Wash., and Mr. James E. Hastings, Columbus, cousins of the bridegroom, and Mr. James Bruce, Columbus.

Mrs. Johnson chose for her daughter's wedding a pale green brocaded silk sheath dress with hat to match and bone accessories. Her corsage was yellow-tinted cymbidium orchids. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of pale pink linen, with a pink lace jacket and white accessories. Her corsage was deep rose cymbidium orchids.

A reception was held in the social rooms of the church following the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a four tiered wedding cake highlighted with Figi chrysanthemums and carnations, centered with tall tapers. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the refreshments. Hostesses were Mrs. Jerry C. Johnson and Mrs. Richard Leiss, both of Columbus, Miss Barbara Forg, Cincinnati, and Miss Melody Shea and Mrs. J. Roger Schneider of Circleville.

The bride is a 1960 graduate of Circleville High School and a 1965 graduate of Ohio University, Athens. She was a member of the Ohio University Chorus and the Lindley Hall Serenade Choir. She has accepted a position in the Auditing Bureau of the Ohio Department of Highways, Columbus.

Mr. Line, a 1960 graduate of Columbus West High School, is employed as a Water Inspector by the City of Columbus. He is attending Franklin University, majoring in accounting.

The couple will reside in Columbus.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Whys and Wherefores!

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to the expectant mother who didn't want her husband to see her without dentures, so she refused to take them out and give them to the nurse. I am a surgical nurse and I know the importance of removing dentures. When fully explained to the patient, I have yet to find one who would not readily remove them. If a patient receives anesthetics, or loses consciousness even temporarily, instruments may have to go into the mouth. Artificial teeth may break or become dislodged, and it's entirely possible for the patient to swallow a piece of broken denture or to gag and choke on it. This is a mighty high price to pay for pride.

ST. LOUIS NURSE

DEAR ABBY: I, for one, was glad to see that letter in your column about people who insist on keeping their false teeth in their mouths during surgery or delivery. I work in the laundry at St. Mary's Hospital, and I wish I had a dime for every time we got a call from upstairs asking us to look for some idiot's bridgework or dentures. Some patients will actually lie when they're asked if they have any removable plates in their mouths. When they are discovered and we take them out, they either get lost or mixed up with the sheets, and the patients yell their heads off about OUR carelessness.

DISGUSTED

Mr. David Line, Columbus, served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Mr. William J. Cooke, Seattle, Wash., and Mr. James E. Hastings, Columbus, cousins of the bridegroom, and Mr. James Bruce, Columbus.

R.N. IN RALEIGH

DEAR ABBY: I am a Navy hospital corpsman writing in reply to the letter about dentures. It is the policy of most hospitals to require all patients to remove all prosthetic pieces (false teeth, eyes, eyelashes, fingernails and what-have-you) before entering the delivery or operating room. In some cases wedding rings or religious medals are permitted, but they are carefully taped to the patient. The nurse was correct in insisting that the lady surrender her false teeth for her own protection. If she had choked on them during delivery, it would have been too bad. Respectfully,

ABOARD U.S.S. BRYCE

DEAR ABBY: This happened in the days before they had such strict hospital rules, but it happened nevertheless. One of our leading society ladies went into the local hospital for some supposedly "minor" surgery. I don't know if she was trying to get away with passing off her false teeth as her own, but she had them in her mouth during the operation. They became dislodged somehow, interfered with her breathing, and the woman died on the operating table.

S.S. IN ASHLAND

DEAR ABBY: Please forward my apologies to Celia's sister, who had the ruin with the nurse over the way the nurse demanded that she remove her dentures before going into the delivery room. If nurses were EDUCATED in colleges and universities and not TRAINED in service institutions, such disgusting incidents would not occur. It's regrettable that such cruel and unfeeling nurses are permitted to run loose. I am an instructor in Obstetrics, and I teach my student-nurses that the emotional and

There are so many fine nurses who are working hard to improve the quality of nursing care, it is a shame that one nurse can disgrace the whole profession by her mean and bossy attitude. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of pale pink linen, with a pink lace jacket and white accessories. Her corsage was deep rose cymbidium orchids.

A reception was held in the social rooms of the church following the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a four tiered wedding cake highlighted with Figi chrysanthemums and carnations, centered with tall tapers. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the refreshments. Hostesses were Mrs. Jerry C. Johnson and Mrs. Richard Leiss, both of Columbus, Miss Barbara Forg, Cincinnati, and Miss Melody Shea and Mrs. J. Roger Schneider of Circleville.

For a wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains in North Carolina, the new Mrs. Line wore a three piece navy blue suit with white trim and white accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a 1960 graduate of Circleville High School and a 1965 graduate of Ohio University, Athens. She was a member of the Ohio University Chorus and the Lindley Hall Serenade Choir. She has accepted a position in the Auditing Bureau of the Ohio Department of Highways, Columbus.

Mr. Line, a 1960 graduate of Columbus West High School, is employed as a Water Inspector by the City of Columbus. He is attending Franklin University, majoring in accounting.

The couple will reside in Columbus.

Whys and Wherefores!

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to the expectant mother who didn't want her husband to see her without dentures, so she refused to take them out and give them to the nurse. I am a surgical nurse and I know the importance of removing dentures. When fully explained to the patient, I have yet to find one who would not readily remove them. If a patient receives anesthetics, or loses consciousness even temporarily, instruments may have to go into the mouth. Artificial teeth may break or become dislodged, and it's entirely possible for the patient to swallow a piece of broken denture or to gag and choke on it. This is a mighty high price to pay for pride.

ST. LOUIS NURSE

DEAR ABBY: I, for one, was glad to see that letter in your column about people who insist on keeping their false teeth in their mouths during surgery or delivery. I work in the laundry at St. Mary's Hospital, and I wish I had a dime for every time we got a call from upstairs asking us to look for some idiot's bridgework or dentures. Some patients will actually lie when they're asked if they have any removable plates in their mouths. When they are discovered and we take them out, they either get lost or mixed up with the sheets, and the patients yell their heads off about OUR carelessness.

DISGUSTED

DEAR ABBY: I am also a nurse who didn't take up nursing to fight the patients, but I have fought a few in my time. I'll never forget the wrestling match I had with a 240-pounder who refused to take off his money belt when we were preparing him for an emergency kidney stone operation.

R.N. IN RALEIGH

DEAR ABBY: I am a Navy hospital corpsman writing in reply to the letter about dentures. It is the policy of most hospitals to require all patients to remove all prosthetic pieces (false teeth, eyes, eyelashes, fingernails and what-have-you) before entering the delivery or operating room. In some cases wedding rings or religious medals are permitted, but they are carefully taped to the patient. The nurse was correct in insisting that the lady surrender her false teeth for her own protection. If she had choked on them during delivery, it would have been too bad. Respectfully,

ABOARD U.S.S. BRYCE

DEAR ABBY: This happened in the days before they had such strict hospital rules, but it happened nevertheless. One of our leading society ladies went into the local hospital for some supposedly "minor" surgery. I don't know if she was trying to get away with passing off her false teeth as her own, but she had them in her mouth during the operation. They became dislodged somehow, interfered with her breathing, and the woman died on the operating table.

S.S. IN ASHLAND

DEAR ABBY: Please forward my apologies to Celia's sister, who had the ruin with the nurse over the way the nurse demanded that she remove her dentures before going into the delivery room. If nurses were EDUCATED in colleges and universities and not TRAINED in service institutions, such disgusting incidents would not occur. It's regrettable that such cruel and unfeeling nurses are permitted to run loose. I am an instructor in Obstetrics, and I teach my student-nurses that the emotional and

There are so many fine nurses who are working hard to improve the quality of nursing care, it is a shame that one nurse can disgrace the whole profession by her mean and bossy attitude. Women without compassion should not be allowed to practice nursing. But what can we do? We are SO short-handed. No name, please. I still —

U.S. Claims Against Castro Under Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soon after taking control of Cuba, Fidel Castro began confiscating the property of American citizens and American corporations.

By the end of 1963, his fifth year in power, his Marxist government had seized $1.12 billion to $1.37 billion worth of U.S. property, according to State Department estimates.

This week, a congressional committee is expected to take a step toward helping Americans register their claims against the Cuban government.

There are no diplomatic relations between the United States and Havana, and there apparently is no way of recovering the money now.

But the U.S. government — and Rep. Dante Fascell, a Democrat whose Miami district is crisscrossed with refugees from the island — is looking toward that day.

Fascell has introduced a bill to provide for the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission to put down in black and white American claims against Cuba.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee, of which he is a member, is expected to approve the measure, perhaps Tuesday, and start it on its way through Congress.

Fascell got the legislative ball rolling last year, but the Senate added a provision for the sale of frozen Cuban government assets to pay the commission's way.

That legislation broadened the commission's authority to handle claims against Cuba and President Johnson signed it into law. Then he asked the State, Treasury and Justice departments to study the implications of the Senate amendment.

They estimated only $350,000 to $400,000 would be recouped this way — a drop in the bucket when compared to the $1 billion-plus in claims. And it would be the first such seizure of foreign property in peacetime in U.S. history.

Besides, Leonard C. Meekre, legal adviser to the State Department, told the House Inter-American Affairs subcommittee earlier this month that such seizure of alien property is contrary to U.S. interests.

"Countries less dedicated to the preservation of property rights could cite our action in the case of Cuba as justification for the taking of American-owned private property," he said.

Fascell gave this reason for the new legislation:

"The thousands of Americans who have claims against the Cuban government have to get on record now, not later when some of their witnesses have died and memories turn hazy."

2 Cavern Explorers Are Killed by Fumes

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio (AP) — Two Dayton men trying to find a new entrance to the Zane Caverns near here died Sunday night when they were overcome by fumes in a 20-foot deep hole.

Darwin Raymond Tussey, 30, former Navy frogman and skin diving enthusiast, and Lynn Place, 44, were overcome by fumes after setting off a dynamite blast in the exploration effort.

Firemen from Bellefontaine and Zanesfield wearing oxygen masks managed to pull the pair from the hole about two hours later. Attempts to revive them at the scene and lengthy attempts at Mary Rutan Hospital here were unsuccessful.

After his World War I key civilian post, Baruch mainly served the government on commissions.

President Harry S. Truman appointed him American delegate to the then new United Nations Atomic Energy Commission. He developed the "Baruch plan" for atomic energy control, but it was rejected by the Russians.

The financier was credited with helping President Herbert Hoover obtain postponement of Allied war debts and of being influential in establishment of the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Baruch also was a consultant and friend to Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Normally a Democrat, Baruch supported Eisenhower in 1952 after a coolness developed between Baruch and President Truman. Baruch showed his displeasure by declining to serve on the Democratic party's finance committee in 1948.

Although he held no major government post since World War I, Baruch was constantly consulted by the great, near-great, and would-be-great. He was an imposing figure of a man, standing 6-foot-4, with white hair, pink face, and blue eyes that often twinkled. He liked to wear white suits with a bright bow tie and a boutonniere.

His opinions on myriad matters often came as he sat on a bench in New York's Central Park or Lafayette Park across the street from the White House.

Baruch, who would have been 95 on Aug. 19, gave a pre-birthday interview to The Associated Press last Aug. 18.

His upcoming 94th birthday felt, he said, "about like it did when I was 92 or 93."

Asked what was the greatest lesson he learned in his long life span, he replied, "To mind my own business."

Through his 94th birthday, Baruch went swimming three or four times a week. He hunted with his dogs at his South Carolina plantation, Hobcaw, until he was 92.

Some of his rules for success included:

"Be polite. If you are, others will be polite to you. That makes life a little easier."

"Be helpful. Be cheerful. Don't be envious. By far the better way is to assume that what the other fellow does, you can do as well or better."

Billy Graham Urges Unity In Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham, ending an eight-day crusade in Alabama's capital city, appealed to his integrated audience to "continue the spirit of unity and love" demonstrated during the revival.

"I ask you as a Southerner to go out of your way to show kindness to the people of other races as you have done this week," the North Carolina-born evangelist told some 18,000 persons Sunday.

Graham said, "Let's show the world we can solve our problems in the spirit of Christ."

"All over the country there are tensions. We are in the middle of a great social revolution," he said.

An estimated 1,300 worshippers answered the call to dedicate themselves to Christ — the largest number of the crusade in this city, the state capital and former capital of the Confederacy.

Earlier, Graham told The Associated Press in an interview that he believes Alabama is making rapid steps in solving its racial difficulties and could set the pace for the nation.

"If the Ku Klux Klan will quiet down, if the extremists in the civil rights organizations will give Alabama time to digest the new civil rights laws, and if the politicians will not try to exploit the situation," his task would be easier, Graham said.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — "We don't spend our time name-calling," President Johnson said happily, talking about his relations with Congress.

Two things could spoil his contentment: a bad turn in the Vietnamese war, or deeper American involvement, and the 1966 congressional elections.

Johnson is continuing an era of good feelings between the White House and Capitol Hill which began with President Dwight D. Eisenhower and was continued by President John F. Kennedy.

If the generation coming of age now thinks the present placidity is in the American tradition, it should have been around in the days of Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

"I think," he said last week, "I can truthfully say I doubt there has ever been a period in American history when the (Supreme) Court and the Congress and the executive were working more harmoniously."

In the first place, they lacked insight and experience with the wails, whims and wishes of the men in the Capitol, with whom he has worked 33 years.

Second, he is dealing with a Congress run by his own Democrats who so outnumber the Republicans that the latter are a pretty ineffective minority.

Third, Eisenhower and Kennedy never worked on Congress as Johnson does.

There were some reasons for the Eisenhower-Kennedy non-combat amiability.

Eisenhower, with no congressional experience, was a national hero who could afford to stay above cat-and-dog fights.

They would have hurt his man-of-goodwill image and they would have hurt any who bit him.

By avoiding name-calling, he gave none an excuse to attack.

Thus the image was preserved. Retaining this calm throughout eight years, six of them with a Democrat-run Congress, he proposed little that was earth-shaking or provocative.

Kennedy served in Congress 14 years but even there was never in the same league with Johnson for sheer work.

As president he showed no real stomach for a fight to try to push Congress into giving him what he asked for.

There has always been an explanation around Washington for this:

He won the presidency by a hair; the Democrats' margin over Republicans was thin; if he had run in 1964, won by a big vote, and got a heavily Democratic Congress, he would have really fought in his second term.

But there is growing discontent in Congress over Johnson's handling of the Vietnamese war.

Republicans will need issues in the 1968 election if they hope to win back some of the House and Senate seats they lost in 1964.

They haven't been creating issues, but they'll have to begin to, Johnson, sensitive to criticism, will be under a big strain not to shoot back if the Republicans start to ambush him.

Then what happens to the era of good feelings?

Ross County, formed in 1798 and named after James Ross of Pennsylvania, is the oldest county in the state in South-Central Country. Perhaps its most famous resident was an Indian — Logan, Chief of the Mingos — who lived most of his life near Chillicothe. After his family had been killed and his village wiped out by a band of white ruffians, Logan sought revenge by killing many whites who had been his friends. When asked to attend a peace conference by Lord Dunsmore, Logan delivered his famous reply under the Logan Elm south of Circleville. Inscribed on a tablet at the site, the reply stands as a classic in bitter eloquence. The Logan Elm, as everyone knows, lived until 1964 — 190 years after Logan's ironic message.

Baruch conferred again with Eisenhower three days later.

Answering speculation that he might be in line for a high government post, Baruch told newsmen: "As the girl said when they asked her why she never married, 'Nobody asked me.'"

Much of the Baruch fortune went for the promotion of physical medicine — motivated by his father's profession.

Baruch said that when he made his first million, his father was unimpressed, and asked him: "I would like to know what you are going to do with it, son."

On another occasion Baruch said, "It has always been easy for me to make money. Why shouldn't I give it away?"

Baruch's wife died in 1938. Two of their three children survive — B.M. Baruch Jr. and Mrs. Robert Samstag. A daughter, Belle Wilcox Baruch, died in 1964 at the age of 64.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — "We don't spend our time name-calling," President Johnson said happily, talking about his relations with Congress.

Two things could spoil his contentment: a bad turn in the Vietnamese war, or deeper American involvement, and the 1966 congressional elections.

Johnson is continuing an era of good feelings between the White House and Capitol Hill which began with President Dwight D. Eisenhower and was continued by President John F. Kennedy.

If the generation coming of age now thinks the present placidity is in the American tradition, it should have been around in the days of Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

What's unique with Johnson in the congressional relationship is the way it has paid off.

"I think," he said last week, "I can truthfully say I doubt there has ever been a period in American history when the (Supreme) Court and the Congress and the executive were working more harmoniously."

The evidence is how Congress has whipped — or is working on his major proposals, some of which Kennedy originated but never got.

Neither Eisenhower nor Kennedy was a match for Johnson in success with Congress.

In the first place, they lacked insight and experience with the wails, whims and wishes of the men in the Capitol, with whom he has worked 33 years.

Second, he is dealing with a Congress run by his own Democrats who so outnumber the Republicans that the latter are a pretty ineffective minority.

Third, Eisenhower and Kennedy never worked on Congress as Johnson does.

There were some reasons for the Eisenhower-Kennedy non-combat amiability.

Eisenhower, with no congress-

sional experience, was a national hero who could afford to stay above cat-and-dog fights.

They would have hurt his man-of-goodwill image and they would have hurt any who bit him.

By avoiding name-calling, he gave none an excuse to attack.

Precipitation averaging between one quarter and one half inch as showers or thundershowers Wednesday or Thursday and again about Saturday.

Few nonbelievers have ever set foot in Mecca's holiest places. The first European to enter in disguise was Ludovico di Varthema of Bologna in 1503. The best known was Sir Richard Burton, the English explorer.

By James Marlow

Thus the image was preserved. Retaining this calm throughout eight years, six of them with a Democrat-run Congress, he proposed little that was earth-shaking or provocative.

Kennedy served in Congress 14 years but even there was never in the same league with Johnson for sheer work.

As president he showed no real stomach for a fight to try to push Congress into giving him what he asked for.

There has always been an explanation around Washington for this:

He won the presidency by a hair; the Democrats' margin over Republicans was thin; if he had run in 1964, won by a big vote, and got a heavily Democratic Congress, he would have really fought in his second term.

But there is growing discontent in Congress over Johnson's handling of the Vietnamese war.

Republicans will need issues in the 1968 election if they hope to win back some of the House and Senate seats they lost in 1964.

They haven't been creating issues, but they'll have to begin to. Johnson, sensitive to criticism, will be under a big strain not to shoot back if the Republicans start to ambush him.

Then what happens to the era of good feelings?

This is South-Central Country ... and Logan's, too.

Ross County, formed in 1798 and named after James Ross of Pennsylvania, is the oldest county in the state in South-Central Country. Perhaps its most famous resident was an Indian — Logan, Chief of the Mingos — who lived most of his life near Chillicothe. After his family had been killed and his village wiped out by a band of white ruffians, Logan sought revenge by killing many whitemen who had been his friends. When asked to attend a peace conference by Lord Dunsmore, Logan delivered his famous reply under the Logan Elm south of Circleville. Inscribed on a tablet at the site, the reply stands as a classic in bitter eloquence. The Logan Elm, as everyone knows, lived until 1964 — 190 years after Logan's ironic message.

Almost 64,000 people live in Ross County — approximately 27,000 of them in the county seat of Chillicothe — hub of the paper industry in Ohio. Founded in 1800, the Chillicothe Gazette is the oldest newspaper west of the Alleghenies, and Mount Logan, at Chillicothe, brings fame to the county because it is depicted on the Great Seal of the State of Ohio.

South-Central Country — Ross County, whose rural areas are served by South-Central Electric — a progressive-minded, locally-owned power company with strong community ties. It is proud to be a part of the past, present, and future of Ross County.

PCC Linksters Place Fourth In SEOGA Event

The Pickaway Country Club placed fourth in the annual South Eastern Ohio Golf Assn. tournament, won yesterday by Marietta, the host club.

Marietta had the low team total of 900. Athens was second with a 922, Gallipolis was third with 957, the Pickaway golfers carded a 976, Cambridge 984; Logan 994, Chillicothe 1005, Lancaster 1024, and Jackson a 1070.

Bob Littler Jr., of the Athens Country Club was the medalist for the day with a one over par, 71-72-143.

A member of the Ohio University Golf squad, Littler fired his second 18 hole total of 72 yesterday morning because he had to leave to compete in the NCAA Golf tournament.

IN THE afternoon the wind was a factor, causing many scores to increase. Carding the low score for the PCC team was Steve Helwagen with a 74-79-143. He ranked eighth in individual medalist honors.

Brent Bell had a 158, Maynard Eaton a 162, Dean MacFadden a 166, Bud Hritz a 168, Bill Shockley a 169, Steve Brudzinski a 171, Bob MacFadden a 172, Bob Grubb a 173, Bill Sibbick a 177.

In the 50 to 54 division of the seniors tournament, Rudy Chelkowski fired a 183. Kermit Blosser of Athens won the division with a 150.

The 55 to 64 division was won by Al Bowman of Logan. Bill Eddy of Pickaway Country Club carded a 177.

Next year the SEOGA tournament will be held at the Pickaway Country Club.

Tribe Hurlers Chalk Pair of Brilliant Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Birdie Tebbetts rubbed his magic lamp during spring training and made a wish.

"We hope we have good pitching," the Cleveland manager said, looking toward the American League race this season.

The Geni never came through as well for Aladdin.

Cleveland pitchers pulled two more brilliant performances out of Birdie's lamp Sunday as the Indians extended their winning streak to nine with 5-0 and 3-1 victories over the Los Angeles Angels.

The sweep tied the league's longest winning streak this year and kept the third-place Indians 1½ games behind the league-leading Minnesota Twins, who took New York 6-4 and 7-4.

Sam McDowell fired a two-hitter in the opener for his eighth victory against three defeats, giving the Indians four shutouts in five games. Lee Stange gave up a run in the nightcap but held the Angels to five hits.

Thus, in the last six contests, Indian hurlers have allowed only three runs. And excluding Friday night's 3-2 triumph over the Angels, the opposition has touched them for only 14 hits since last Wednesday.

The most glittering product the Geni has turned out for Tebbetts is the 22-year-old McDowell. The left-hander leads the AL in strikeouts with 122 and the team with a 2.53 earned run average.

Elsewhere in the AL Sunday, Chicago edged Boston 4-3 in 10 innings before rain washed out the second game, Detroit ran its winning string to eight by beating Kansas City before dropping a 2-1 decision and Baltimore crushed Washington 13-2.

In the National, New York nipped Los Angeles 3-2 after losing 2-1, San Francisco swept Pittsburgh 4-3 in 15 innings and 7-3, St. Louis trimmed Milwaukee 6-4, Philadelphia took Houston 3-2 and 7-1 and Chicago defeated Cincinnati 8-5 before losing 9-8.

McDowell held the Angels hitless until the sixth inning when pitcher Marcelino Lopez led off with a double. Jim Fregosi beat out an infield single later in the inning.

Stange gave up a second-inning homer to Willie Smith in the nightcap, but Rocky Colavito tied it with a homer in the sixth and Max Alvis put the Indians ahead with a homer in the eighth.

Parrish Fires Top Rifle Score

Jerry Parrish recorded the best score Saturday morning during the 30 caliber rifle match conducted by the Pickaway County Farmer and Sportsmen Assn. at the Camp Sherman range.

Parrish scored a 175. Second place went to Dick Redman with a 164 and Jerry Lofland was third with a 162.

There were 13 members at the range.

In the first month of the National League baseball season, outfielder Curt Flood of the St. Louis Cardinals compiled the longest hitting streak — 15 games.

Children's Fishing Contest 'Success'

The first annual Children's Fishing Contest sponsored by the Pickaway Farmer and Sportsmen Assn. yesterday at Hargus Lake was termed a "huge success" by Marvin Konkle club president.

And club secretary Dick Redman agreed. "There must of been a thousand kids here about noon," Redman said.

"They were fishing elbow to elbow along the bank near the boat landing," the secretary commented. "At noon, the parking lot was packed with cars."

Paul Jacobs, 110 Nicholas Drive, landed the largest string of fish. The youthful angler began fishing at 8:30 a. m. shortly after the contest began and by 6 p. m. had 46 fish, mostly bluegills, on his stringer.

THE LARGEST fish caught was a 6-ounce crappie, 10 ¾ inches long caught by Gary Coats of Columbus. And the smallest fish was caught by little 6-year-old Lorie Owens, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Owens. It was 2½-inches long.

Jim Logan of Ashville, had the second largest string of fish while Reno Arledge, 310 Mingo St., was third in that category.

The second largest fish was hooked by Wayne Reed, 440 Avon Drive. Randy Cox, North-up, had the third largest.

Prizes, which included bike equipment, a ball glove and fishing tackle, were all donated by area merchants.

In addition to the Children's Fishing Contest, the local outdoor club is sponsoring a county wide fishing contest, and a contest for fish caught at Hargus Lake.

Local Legion Team Drops Doubleheader

Portsmouth Posts 5-2, 8-1 Decisions Over Hall-Adkins '9'

The Hall Adkins Junior Legion baseball team dropped both ends of a double header at Portsmouth yesterday by scores of 5-2 and 8-1.

In both games the local legion nine was leading at the beginning of the fifth inning, 1-0. But the host team mounted rallies in their half of the fifth.

The first tilt saw the Portsmouth players going ahead with a 3-run rally and the second with a 7-run outburst.

Rick Pickering hurled for the local team in the first inning and was charged with the loss. In the second Jeff Lutz started and was the loser. He was relieved in the seventh by Dave Iery.

Chet Iery Sr., manager of the local team, announced today practices will be scheduled every Tuesday and Thursday at 5:30 p. m. on the Logan Elm High School diamond.

Iery said team members who did not have a way to the diamond should meet at the Ohio National Guard Armory on East Franklin St. at 5 p. m.

Sunday the local legion nine will host Sabina.

Ferraris Run Over Field At Le Mans

LE MANS, France (AP) — Ferrari again is the winner of the Le Mans 24-hour race in the Italian firm's sixth consecutive and apparently unbeatable combination of speed, durability and cool-headedness.

The Ferrari onslaught which captured first, second, third, sixth and seventh places Sunday, virtually overwhelmed the second consecutive factory-backed challenge of Fords and Ford-powered Cobras — although two of the Fords proved themselves faster in short spurts.

The drivers of the leading Ferrari combined the experience of a long-time loser and the optimism of a young newcomer.

"I rather enjoy winning," said Masten Gregory, a Kansas City, Mo., native who 12 years ago tried his first Le Mans race and has lived in Europe ever since.

Gregory's co-driver, blond, 23-year-old German Jochen Rindt, a resident of Vienna, Austria, said, "That's just luck, you know. You've got to be lucky in these long-distance races."

Eleven Ferraris started and only five finished. Of six Fords and five Ford Cobras, only one Cobra finished.

Bingman, Legion Little Loop Teams Cop Weekend Games

Bingman Drugs clobbered the Boyer-Whitaker Dodgers 3-5 Saturday morning and took on a night assignment winning the second game of a double header from the Clintonville Cubs 7-2. The American Legion won the first half 14-2.

Bingmans, who suffered their only loss from the American Legion, stand in second place in the Little League Majors.

Rickey Blankenship, Marion Long and Mike Fuller split the hurling duties for Bingmans and Blankenship was awarded the win. In his two frame performance he walked two and fanned four, giving up no hits. Long issued one free pass to first, struck out one and allowed one hit. Fuller also went two. He whiffed one and gave up two hits.

Trotwood Trap Artist Honored

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — Veteran shooter John Sternberger of Trotwood hit 1,241 of 1,300 targets over five days of competition to win the all-events championship in the 79th annual Ohio Trapshooting Association Tournament here.

Sternberger also won all-around competitive honors, hitting 387 of 400 over the five days.

Clyde Doss of Cincinnati won the Ohio Over-all competition, knocking out 674 of 700 targets.

Sunday's top honors went to Ronald Keller of Massillon, a "twice-a-week" shooter in his first year of competition. Keller won the Ohio Handicap Championship in a five-day shoot-off.

Housewife Pockets Pro Bowling Purse

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Peggy DiBattista, a Youngstown housewife, won the $1700 first prize in the Professional Woman Bowlers Association here Sunday.

Her total for 32 games was 6,401, an average of 200, with one pin to spare.

Runner-up, with 6,369, was Donna Zimmerman of Norwalk, Calif., formerly of Akron. Her reward was $1,000.

Boyer went the distance for the Dodgers. He allowed two bases on balls, fanned one and gave up 14 hits.

LONG led the Drugmen's hitting attack with two homers and a two bagger in three trips and collected three runs. Glen Griebel tagged a three sacker and Robert Compton slugged two bingles.

Nutter and Boyer each tallied a double and the only other Dodger hit was off the bat of White, who belted a bingle. Bingmans was never behind and tallied four before the Dodgers scored a single run in the third. They gathered three in the third to lead 7-1. But the Boyer-Whitaker team scored one in the fourth and three in the sixth.

Danny Zickafosse hurled the American Legion to a 14-2 win over the Clintonville Cubs in the first game of a night doubleheader. Danny Ogan supplied the hitting power with two homers and five runs batted in.

In the second game Bingmans showed no signs of weariness as they blasted 12 hits and allowed the Cubs only one.

Blankenship again hurled for the Drugmen and won. He went five frames and walked three, fanned 10 and gave up one hit. Long went one, whiffing one and sending two to first free.

RAY and Buchs shared pitching duties for the Cubs and Ray was handed the loss. He went four, walking three, striking out four and giving up nine hits. Buchs went one and fanned one, allowing three hits.

Bingmans didn't have any extra base hits but had 12 singles. Leading the list was Long with three. Having two bingles were Fuller, Blankenship and Jim Butts.

Lally tallied the Cubs' only hit, a single.

Both Bingmans and American Legion have games to-night. The Drugmen play The Herald Hawks at the Little League diamond in the Fairgrounds at 5:15 p. m. and the Legion will stand Coca-Cola on the Little League diamond at Ted Lewis Park at 5:15 p. m.

"I rather enjoy winning," said Masten Gregory, a Kansas City, Mo., native who 12 years ago tried his first Le Mans race and has lived in Europe ever since.

In eight previous Le Mans races, Gregory had never placed better than fourth.

Gregory's co-driver, blond, 23-year-old German Jochen Rindt, a resident of Vienna, Austria, said, "That's just luck, you know. You've got to be lucky in these long-distance races."

Eleven Ferraris started and only five finished. Of six Fords and five Ford Cobras, only one Cobra finished.

"All I said was:
Show me a filter that delivers the taste and I'll eat my hat."

Player, Nagle Vie in Open Playoff

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A couple of foreigners — Gary Player and Kel Nagle — squared off in an 18-hole playoff for the U.S. Open Golf Championship today — each with different goals.

Nagle, a 44-year-old globe-trotting Australian, was shooting for his first tournament victory ever in the United States. If he makes it, he also will become the oldest player ever to win the Open.

Player, the precise, blackclad little giant from South Africa, sought to add his name to the tiny roster of Gene Sarazen and Ben Hogan as the only men ever to win all four of the world's major golf titles — the U.S. and British Opens, the Masters and the PGA.

Either will be the first foreigner to win it in 45 years.

Should they tie after 18, a sudden-death playoff would begin immediately over the 7,191 frustrating yards of the Belle-rive Country Club course.

The playoff was scheduled to begin at 1:15 p.m. EST.

Player, strangely, was all smiles, even talking about his luck, after blowing a three-stroke lead — and perhaps the chance of a lifetime — in the last three holes and falling into a tie with Nagle at 282.

"The way it worked out," said Player, "I'm lucky to be in a tie after having it locked up."

The tourney had dragged through most of four days, largely lacking in interest with the collapse of Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer's failure to make the cut and the vast, sprawling course which limited the number of sub-par rounds.

Nagle parred the 18th for a 69 and Player parred the 17th.

Then on the 18th, with Nagle watching and needing a par 4 to tie and a 3 to win, Player made a brilliant approach over a trap and left himself a 30-foot putt for a birdie.

He left his hopes for the title hanging just three inches short.

"Glad to be in the playoff?" he asked in response to a question.

Frank Beard, who entered the final round in a second place tie with Nagle, shot a final round 71 for third place at 284. Al Geiberger and Julius Boros were tied for fourth at 287. Raymond Floyd's 68, best of the day, got him a share of sixth with Bruce Devlin at 288.

Nicklaus finished with a 290.

SCHOOL'S OVER — Danny Bowen, left, who starred for West-fall High School's baseball team this past season has recently completed the training course at the Ted Kluszewski Baseball School near Bainbridge. Ailing Arm Fails To Curb Robby

CINCINNATI (AP) — "It doesn't hurt a lot, but it still bothers me a little bit," Frank Robinson says of his right arm.

The arm must have felt pretty good Sunday as the Cincinnati Reds outfielder collected two home runs and a single in a doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs. The Cubs won the first game, 8-5, and the Reds edged them in the second, 9-8.

It was Robinson's second home run—and his 12th for the season—that tied the score in the ninth inning of the second game and gave the Reds their chance. They loaded the bases on singles by John Edwards and Leo Cardenas, sandwiched around a walk, and then won the game when Gordy Coleman hit a pinch single to right.

Both clubs went on a hitting spree on the windy afternoon, and there were a total of nine home runs. Two of the homers were by Ron Santo, who drove in seven Chicago runs with a single and a three-run homer in each game.

Robinson, Tommy Harper and Edwards hit home runs in the opening game, but it wasn't enough. Edwards' two-run homer tied the score, 4-4, in the fourth, but Billy Williams hit his ninth homer with one on the following inning.

Last filly to win the Preakness was Nellie Morse in 1924. She was the fourth of her sex to win the Pimlico feature.

Player, Nagle Vie in Open Playoff

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A couple of foreigners — Gary Player and Kel Nagle — squared off in an 18-hole playoff for the U.S. Open Golf Championship today — each with different goals.

Nagle, a 44-year-old globe-trotting Australian, was shooting for his first tournament victory ever in the United States. If he makes it, he also will become the oldest player ever to win the Open.

Player, the precise, black-clad little giant from South Africa, sought to add his name to the tiny roster of Gene Sarazen and Ben Hogan as the only men ever to win all four of the world's major golf titles — the U.S. and British Opens, the Masters and the PGA.

Either will be the first foreigner to win it in 45 years.

Should they tie after 18, a sudden-death playoff would begin immediately over the 7,191 frustrating yards of the Bellevue Country Club course.

The playoff was scheduled to begin at 1:15 p.m. EST.

Player, strangely, was all smiles, even talking about his luck, after blowing a three-

stroke lead — and perhaps the chance of a lifetime — in the last three holes and falling into a tie with Nagle at 282.

The tourney had dragged through most of four days, largely lacking in interest with

the collapse of Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer's failure to make the cut and the vast, sprawling course which limited the number of sub-par rounds.

But the final four holes, played before a gallery of 17,430 and a national television audience, turned into a gripping duel.

Nagle parred the 18th for a 69 and Player parred the 17th.

Then on the 18th, with Nagle watching and needing a par 4 to tie and a 3 to win, Player made a brilliant approach over a trap and left himself a 30-foot putt for a birdie.

He left his hopes for the title hanging just three inches short. "Glad to be in the playoff?" he asked in response to a question.

Frank Beard, who entered the final round in a second place tie with Nagle, shot a final round 71 for third place at 284. Al Geiberger and Julius Boros were tied for fourth at 287. Raymond Floyd's 68, best of the day, got him a share of sixth with Bruce Devlin at 288.

Nicklaus finished with a 290.

SCHOOL'S OVER — Danny Bowen, left, who starred for Westfall High School's baseball team this past season has recently completed the training course at the Ted Kuszewski Baseball School near Bainbridge. State's Major Spending Bills Up for Ballot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Action on all three of the state's major spending bills is expected this week in a flurry of activity that could signal the end of the Ohio Legislature's current session.

The house votes tonight on Senate amendments to the $197.6 million capital improvements measure, and probably will consider later in the week a Senate-passed bill to appropriate $888 million for the Highway and Highway Safety departments.

Expected Senate action on the record $1.4 billion general appropriations bill would sent that bill to a joint conference committee for final adjustments.

The lawmakers face a July 1 deadline for passage of the big money bills. Otherwise, the state will begin its new fiscal year without authority to release funds, even for state pay-days.

Legislators themselves would be affected by a delay.

Aside from fiscal matters, numerous other proposals are awaiting action but observers say comparatively few will be resolved due to the political deadlock in the Senate. They point out also that approval of appropriations measures normally leads to speedy adjournment.

Tonight's House business also will include votes on measures calling for Ohio's beautification. One would require litter bags in all cars and the other would set up a state beautification council to advise the governor and legislature.

Senators have set the stage for a showdown Tuesday on a controversial bill to cut the legal size of freight train crews from five men to four. Sponsors had it up for a vote once before but withdrew when it was evident they lacked the votes.

Railroad labor is fighting the proposal.

Other actions this week will include additional House hearings on measures to ban racial discrimination in housing. The House Elections and Federal Relations Committee is considering two proposals, including one approved last week by the Senate.

Both houses are set to vote on measures extending Ohio's Aid to Dependent Children of the Unemployed program indefinitely beyond the June 30 expiration date.

The A1H Skyraiders from the carrier Midway were raiding a highway 60 miles south of Hanoi when the 600-mile-an-hour MIGs swept down on them with rockets blazing, the spokesman said.

The Skyraiders, whose speed is about 300 miles an hour, "executed defensive maneuvers as they carried the fight to lower altitude," he said. Two of the Skyraiders scored repeated hits with 20mm cannon fire on one jet that plunged to the ground and exploded, he said.

The spokesman declined to speculate about the nationality of the jets. He did note that both North Viet Nam and Communist China have MIG17s.

The kill was the third claimed by Midway-based warplanes in four days. Last Thursday, two U.S. Navy Phantom jets shot down two of four North Vietnamese MIG17s while on a mission over North Viet Nam.

During the missions Sunday Skyraiders and jet fighters-bombers from the carrier Oriskany as well as the Midway bombed and damaged a petroleum storage area, a supply depot, army barracks and other military targets, a spokesman said.

All the Navy planes returned safely, the spokesman said. Peking radio claimed that three U.S. Air Force F105 jets were shot down and several others damaged by anti-aircraft fire, but no Air Force raids were reported in Saigon.

South Vietnamese troops killed 66 Communist guerrillas Sunday in two operations in South Viet Nam's northern provinces, a U.S. spokesman said.

Gilligan acknowledged that Taft has little choice next year—if he decides to try again for elective office—other than be a candidate for the House once again.

In any case, Gilligan said, he will seek to retain his House seat and will base much of his campaign on President Johnson's program.

Taft served as an at-large member of the House from Ohio in 1963 and 1964, then made an unsuccessful try for election to the seat held by his father, the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, for many years.

Gilligan acknowledged that Taft has little choice next year—if he decides to try again for elective office—other than be a candidate for the House once again.

New Zealander, 84, Pays Last Visit to Son's Grave

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The old man from New Zealand ran his finger across the face of the grave marker, memorizing each detail.

Sub-Lt. Denis B. McLean, Royal Navy Volunteer Reserve, Born 1920—Died 1942.

Rest in Peace

A small Union Jack fluttered at the head of the marker as the old man bent silently beside the plot, his tight-jawed face as craggy as the shoreline back in New Zealand.

"This is my last trip," Charles McLean, 84, said. "I don't expect to come this way again."

He is buried in a special plot with a dozen other British servicemen killed in this area during the war.

McLean traveled half way around the globe five years ago to visit the grave for the first time. He and his wife planned the trip for a long time, saving pennies from his schoolmaster's pension.

She died a month before they were to sail.

"We had the trip already penciled in when she left me," McLean said in a rolling brogue, a mixture of his half-Scottish, half-

He sprinkled the rust-brown dirt on his son's grave and refilled the vial with earth from the grassy plot.

"I took the earth home wi' me and used it to plant a totara tree in the yard for Dan. It's a good stout tree and one day will grow 150 feet tall."

"I've never grown used to losing him, you know. He was not only a son but a cobbler as well."

A cobbler, he said, is New Zealand slang for "pal."

"No, I shall not come to this sad place again," he said slowly and waked out of the graveyard. "It's a long trip and I ha' no cobbler to make it with me."

He left instructions for an additional inscription to be put on his son's granite marker, chiseled in the ancient language of the Maori, the original New Zealanders:

"Haere ra etama!"

Farewell, o son!

Gilligan Set To Run Even If Taft Does

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John J. Gilligan, D-Ohio, said today he will seek a second two-year House term in 1966 whether or not former Rep. Robert Taft Jr. decides to try for the House again.

There has been general speculation that Taft, a Cincinnati Republican who narrowly lost to Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, in the 1964 general election, will try for a comeback next year by entering the congressional race in the first district.

It is Gilligan's view that Taft will make known his decision about Christmas time, adding "It is my guess that he does not know at this time what he will do."

In any case, Gilligan said, he will seek to retain his House seat and will base much of his campaign on President Johnson's program.

Taft served as an at-large member of the House from Ohio in 1963 and 1964, then made an unsuccessful try for election to the seat held by his father, the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, for many years.

Gilligan acknowledged that Taft has little choice next year—if he decides to try again for elective office—other than be a candidate for the House once again.

New Zealander, 84, Pays Last Visit to Son's Grave

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The old man from New Zealand ran his finger across the face of the grave marker, memorizing each detail.

Sub-Lt. Denis B. McLean, Royal Navy Volunteer Reserve, Born 1920—Died 1942. Rest in Peace.

A small Union Jack fluttered at the head of the marker as the old man bent silently beside the plot, his tight-jawed face as craggy as the shoreline back in New Zealand.

His sandy-haired son had died in a plane crash Aug. 11, 1942, a few days after winning his wings with other visiting New Zealand airmen at Opal Locka Naval Air Station north of Miami.

He is buried in a special plot with a dozen other British servicemen killed in this area during the war.

McLean traveled half way around the globe five years ago to visit the grave for the first time. He and his wife planned the trip for a long time, saving pennies from his schoolmaster's pension.

"We had the trip already penciled in when she left me," McLean said in a rolling brogue, a mixture of his half-Scottish, half-

Irish ancestry. "She never got to see Dan's resting place."

State's Major Spending Bills Up for Ballot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Action on all three of the state's major spending bills is expected this week in a flurry of activity that could signal the end of the Ohio Legislature's current session.

The house votes tonight on Senate amendments to the $197.6 million capital improvements measure, and probably will consider later in the week a Senate-passed bill to appropriate $888 million for the Highway and Highway Safety departments.

Expected Senate action on the record $1.4 billion general appropriations bill would sent that bill to a joint conference committee for final adjustments.

The lawmakers face a July 1 deadline for passage of the big money bills. Otherwise, the state will begin its new fiscal year without authority to release funds, even for state pay-days.

Legislators themselves would be affected by a delay.

Aside from fiscal matters, numerous other proposals are awaiting action but observers say comparatively few will be resolved due to the political deadlock in the Senate. They point out also that approval of appropriations measures normally leads to speedy adjournment.

Tonight's House business also will include votes on measures calling for Ohio's beautification. One would require litter bags in all cars and the other would set up a state beautification council to advise the governor and legislature.

Senators have set the stage for a showdown Tuesday on a controversial bill to cut the legal size of freight train crews from five men to four. Sponsors had it up for a vote once before but withdrew when it was evident they lacked the votes.

Railroad labor is fighting the proposal.

Other actions this week will include additional House hearings on measures to ban racial discrimination in housing. The House Elections and Federal Relations Committee is considering two proposals, including one approved last week by the Senate.

Both houses are set to vote on measures extending Ohio's Aid to Dependent Children of the Unemployed program indefinitely beyond the June 30 expiration date.

er Communist MIG17 jet fighters Sunday night and shot one down, a U.S. spokesman reported.

The A1H Skyraiders from the carrier Midway were raiding a highway 60 miles south of Hanoi when the 600-mile-an-hour MIGs swept down on them with rockets blazing, the spokesman said.

The Skyraiders, whose speed is about 300 miles an hour, "executed defensive maneuvers as they carried the fight to lower altitude," he said. Two of the Skyraiders scored repeated hits with 20mm cannon fire on one jet that plunged to the ground and exploded, he said.

The spokesman declined to speculate about the nationality of the jets. He did note that both North Viet Nam and Communist China have MIG17s.

The kill was the third claimed by Midway-based warplanes in four days. Last Thursday, two U.S. Navy Phantom jets shot down two of four North Vietnamese MIG17s while on a mission over North Viet Nam.

During the missions Sunday Skyraiders and jet fighter-bombers from the carrier Oriskany as well as the Midway bombed and damaged a petroleum storage area, a supply depot, army barracks and other military targets, a spokesman said.

All the Navy planes returned safely, the spokesman said. Peking radio claimed that three U.S. Air Force F105 jets were shot down and several others damaged by anti-aircraft fire, but no Air Force raids were reported in Saigon.

South Vietnamese troops killed 66 Communist guerrillas Sunday in two operations in South Viet Nam's northern provinces, a U.S. spokesman said.
